

YOUNG ECONOMIST AWARDS 2004

---

The EEA grants an honorific award to the authors of outstanding papers singled out by the Programme Committee at the Annual Congress. Submitting authors eligible for the competition must have conformed to the following regulations: applicants must be under 30 years of age or no more than 3 years past a Ph.D. defense and, in case of a coauthored paper, all authors must be individually eligible.

At the 2004 Madrid Congress, the following awards were granted:

- Camelia Bejan*, University of Minnesota, "Production under Uncertainty and Financial Innovation."
- Ester Camina*, Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona and CORE, "The Role of Mediation in Peacemaking and Peacekeeping Negotiations."
- Pablo Casas-Arce*, University of Oxford, "Firm Provision of General Training and Specific Human Capital Acquisition."
- Francesco Decarolis*, University of Chicago, "Economic Effects of Democracy—An Empirical Analysis."
- Francesco Feri*, Università Ca' Foscari, "Network Formation with Endogenous Decay."
- Gina A. Gancia*, CREI and UPF, "Globalisation, Divergence and Stagnation."
- Paola Giuliano*, International Monetary Fund, "On the Determinants of Living Arrangements in Western Europe: Does Cultural Origin Matter?"
- Eiichiro Kazumori*, Californian Institute of Technology, "Markov Perfect Industry Dynamics with Network Externalities and Switching Costs."
- Miklos Koren*, Hungarian Academy of Sciences, "Diversification and Development."
- Jo Thori Lind*, University of Oslo, "Do the Rich Vote Conservative Because They Are Rich?"
- Mercedes Vera Martin*, International Monetary Fund, "Industry Location in European Regions: The Roles of Comparative Advantage and Economic Geography."